In response to the changing conditions of the COVID-19 pandemic, Fedway analyzes best practices to meet the needs of our employees. After reviewing the current circumstances and impacts of COVID-19 in 2021, we will amend our sick time program for 2022.

For this calendar year, Fedway will award all employees three additional sick days. This special allocation will be a one-time award for 2022.

As we communicated in December, we continue to support our employees who wish to get vaccinated or receive their booster vaccine.

Vaccines are free and readily available. Resources and information can be found at the New Jersey Department of Health or the Centers for Disease Control websites.

Be reminded that the company will continue to provide access to paid time off to get your COVID vaccine and recover from any side effects.

We are Fedway Strong - Together!
